Agnes Raguse Rave Awareness, Berlin
Agnieszka Bulacik Rave Awareness, Berlin
Navina Nicke Safe Night, Hamburg

„Why can't we just have fun? Awareness and nightlife.“

Party space is not free from power dynamics, oppression and violence. While we all want to have fun - not all of us can have truly joyful experience. We want to engage in the discussion about awareness and discrimination in the club/party context. How the topic of awareness is gaining recognition and what it means for us? Do awareness concepts work? How can we tackle awareness work on different levels? What can be possible future and how we can make it happen? We will discuss these questions, pass on our experiences and learn from each other.

- 19:00-19:45 DETROIT - BERLIN CONNECTION
Dimitri Hegeman Tresor, Berlin
Cornelius Harris Underground Resistance, Detroit
Dr. Mary Dellenbaugh-Losse Urban Policy, Berlin
Lennart Siebert Belius, Berlin

For decades Detroit has taught us a lot about music and has inspired many. Is it not time to give something back to Detroit? How can the 2 cities Berlin and Detroit learn from each other and empower one another? We look at opportunities to build a transatlantic bond that focuses on Urban Development, the activation of underutilized space, activation of youth cultures in policymaking,.

- 20:00-20:45 DOOR POLICY BERLIN: T.B.A
Lukas Lapidar Clubcommission Berlin
Jenny Pahmeyer Political Scientist, Berlin
Navina Nicke Safe Night, Hamburg

Bouncers play a very important role in club culture: They make sure not everyone comes inside. A club's door policy is often treated like a mystery, but first of all, the door is supposed to make the club a safer space. However, there is a thin line between rejection and discrimination. Stereotypes are often reproduced and have to be reflected constantly. We want to initiate a practice-oriented dialogue about door policy and rave awareness.
